COMMUNITY MEDIA

To Whom It May Concern,

This letter is my personal recommendation for Teale Failla. I have been working under Teale in the Public Equipment department for the past two and a half years at BRIC Arts Media Brooklyn. She has supervised me and a crew of my peers across various departments of the Community Media division. In that time she has consistently brought a keen eye to detail and sharp lateral thinking to our facility.

Among other functions, BRIC houses Brooklyn Community Access Television, transmitting four channels of programming by both community producers as well as our own internal professional producers. We train members of the community to use our equipment and facilities which they use to create programming for our network. In addition, our own production department uses much of the same equipment to produce Emmy award nominated programming. Managing such an operation is a multi-faceted job, requiring technical expertise, interpersonal skills, creative counseling, and a good understanding of the needs of the community as well as the staff.

From her first days working at BRIC, Teale assumed a take-charge attitude to the work place and has been able to present innovative ideas and communicate the benefits. She was quick to investigate how we process data and created solutions that demonstrably strengthened equipment retention and longevity.

While Teale has played a key role in streamlining workflow, she's been an asset to my department in communication both with the public and through our various other departments. This includes counseling laypeople with operating technical hardware, communicating between executive directors and staff, and at times empathetic conflict resolution. Because of this, Teale earned the sincere respect and loyalty of both my peers and myself.

I highly recommend Teale. She is a strong leader and would make a great asset to any organization.

Sincerely,
